▶ Providing the TFN

Providing your tax file number (TFN) to Qantas Superannuation Limited (Trustee) is optional.

Your TFN is confidential. Qantas Superannuation Limited as the Trustee of the Qantas Superannuation Plan (the Plan), is required to inform you, before you decide whether to provide your TFN, the following:

1. The Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993 permits the Trustee to collect your TFN.
2. If you do provide your TFN, the Trustee will only use it for legal purposes. These include:
 - a) finding or identifying your superannuation benefits where other information is insufficient;
 - b) calculating tax on any eligible termination payment to which you may be entitled; and
 - c) providing information to the Australian Taxation Office.
3. If you do provide your TFN, the Trustee may provide your TFN to:
 - a) the trustee of any other superannuation fund to which your benefits are transferred in the future (but we won't give your TFN to any other fund if you tell us in writing not to); and
 - b) the Australian Taxation Office.We will not give your TFN to anyone else.
4. If you do not, either now or later, provide your TFN, it is not an offence. However:
 - a) You may pay more tax on your benefits than you have to (though you may reclaim this through the income tax assessment process); and
 - b) It may also be more difficult in the future to find all the benefits to which you are entitled, to consolidate your benefits or to pay your benefits to you.

These consequences may change in the future as a result of legislative changes.
