About this Financial Services Guide

This Financial Services Guide (FSG) is designed to inform you of the financial services we offer you as a member of Qantas Super and to help you decide whether to use these services. This FSG explains:

- Who we are;
- The financial services we are authorised to provide;
- How we are remunerated for our financial services;
- Our dispute resolution process; and
- Our contact details.

When you joined Qantas Super, you should have received a Product Disclosure Statement (PDS) or other information for the division you were eligible to join (disclosure documents). There is a PDS for the open division of Qantas Super, Gateway. The PDS for Gateway and disclosure documents for other divisions set out the main features, risks and benefits for each division. Copies of the current PDS and disclosure documents are available from www.qantassuper.com.au or by contacting us.

This FSG is issued by Qantas Superannuation Limited ABN 47 003 806 960 AFSL 288330 RSE Licence L0002257 (QSL, we, us, our or Trustee) as trustee of the Qantas Superannuation Plan ABN 41 272 198 829 RSE R1005486 (Qantas Super). Qantas Super exists for current and former employees of Qantas Airways Limited and associated employers (Qantas Group)

Qantas Super employees may be Authorised Representatives of an external AFS Licensee for the purpose of providing general and limited scope, single topic, financial advice contained to members' interests in Qantas Super. Such employees are paid on a salary basis.

The AFS Licensee is responsible for advice provided by its Authorised Representatives.

You should refer the Financial Services Guide issued by the external AFS Licensee for information about financial services they provide.

Remuneration, commission and other benefits

For members in accumulation divisions, the cost of providing general financial product advice is included in the administration fees deducted from your account each year.

There is no separate charge for the provision of general financial product advice. Where no administration fees are deducted from your account, the cost is paid for by your employer. For further information about administration fees, refer to the PDS or disclosure documents for your division.

If you are in a defined benefit division, the cost of providing general financial product advice is included in the contributions you and/or your employer make to fund your defined benefit.

No commission is paid to any representative of QSL for general financial product advice provided to you. Representatives are employees of QSL and are remunerated by way of a salary. They may also receive cash bonuses or participate in profit share arrangements as employees of the Qantas Group. QSL Directors who are Qantas Group employees are not remunerated by QSL or the Qantas Group for their duties as directors of QSL.

We do not pay referral fees to third parties.

Compensation arrangements

If we are liable to meet a claim, we may make payment out of the assets of Qantas Super where appropriate.

These arrangements satisfy our obligations in relation to compensation under section 912B of the Corporations Act.
